COCK FIGHT .- A match was fought on Sat urday up the Shell road between two game cocks, owned by Hogan and Cooper. The fight was for $190 a side, and lasted 4234 minutes, Hogan's bird being killed. About 200 persons were spectators of the match, and a considerable amount of money changed hands.

MASONIC ELECTION .- At the annual communication of Strict Observance Lodge, No. 73, A. F. M., held Friday evening, December 3d, the follow ing officers were elected to serve for the ensuing Jear: Bros. D. C. Marsh, W. M.; F. L. Parker, S. W.; James Simons, Jr., J. W.; Fred. Fanning. treasurer; W. W. Simons, secretary; J. D. Easter lin, S. D.; D. P. Robinson, J. D.; F. Richards, Jr., and T. Street, stewards; J. H. Schmidt, tyler.

THE UNITED STATES COURT .- COLUMBIA December 3.—Ex parte Glies J. Patterson, in re H. I Pride bankrupt. Petition to establish lien McAliley & Brawley, pro. pet. S. P. Hamilton for a judgment creditor. W. B. Wilson for assignee. Registrar W. J. Clawson's report was read in favor of the petitioner. S. P. Hamilton, Esq., opposed the report, on the ground that satisfaction had been entered six years since on the lien now sought to be established. He was replied to by W. H. Brawley, Esq., who contended that satisfaction had been entered by mistake by counsel for plaintiff. W. B. Wilson, Esq., was heard in reply for the assignee. This case involved a large nount of money, and the facts were rather com plicated. The arguments of counsel occupied the greater part of Thursday and Friday. The Judge reserved his opinion.

INSTALLATION .- The Rev. W. W. Hicks, who has fer some time filled the position of associate pastor in St. John's Lutheran Church, was formally installed yesterday morning. The ceremony was witnessed by a large congregation. The Revs. J. Hawkins, of Newberry, A. R. Rude, of Columbia, and T. S. Boihest, of Pomaria, were present and assisted. The pulpit was occupied by Dr. Bachman and the Rev. Mr. Hawkins, Messrs. Rude and Boinest taking seats in the chancel, and the Rev. Mr. Hicks, accompanied by the vestry and wardens, was assigned a pew in the main aisle in front of the pulpit. The sermon was delivered by Mr. Hawkins from 2d Corinthians, 3d chapter, 5th to the 9th verses. The instaflation services were then read by Mr. Rude, and the charge delivered by Dr. Bachman. The benediction was then pronounced by the assistant

Besides the numerous illustrations with which the volume ersed, there are at the end sixty-seven pages of the most finished pictorial illustrations, representing almost every conceivable object in nature, science and act. That this splendid work is issued from the famous Riverside Press, is all that need be said in commendation of its typograptical execution. ATTEMPTED ESCAPE.—On Friday while the prisoners who had been sentenced were being taken from the Courthouse to the Jail, two of them, Joe Bailey and Wilson Goodwin, who had been sentenced to terms of four and three years in the penitentiary, endeavored to effect their escape. Before leaving the Jall Bailey had filled his pockets with flour, and when in Queen street, near Archdale, he adroitly threw this in the constable's face, and together with Goodwin commenced measuring the ground at a lively rate of speed. Pursuit was at once made, and pistol shots fired, one of which struck Balley in the forehead, and stopped his course. Goodwin turned and doubled, and led his pursuers a long chase, but was finally brought to by a ball in the heel. Seven shots were fired, and considerable excitement created, as the the streets were filled with people who might have been injured.

When on the brink of ruin, Ruth is saved by the devotion of Ned Clayton, and Redburn, completely foiled, returns to London, where he wins the love of refuses his consent, and threatens to cut off Fanny with a shilling; but Redburn finds an unexpected ally in "a party by the name of Johnson," (Mr. Samuel Ryan,) who, for a share in the spolls, agrees to secure the consent of the stern parent. In the nick of time this "party by the name of Johnson" saves Redburn from expulsion from Mr. Danville's house, and reminds his "old pal," Mr. Danville, that he will prove him guilty of forgery and desertion unless he consents to the match. Fanny Danville overhears both the charge and the confession of her father, and appeals for aid to Redburn, who treats her with cutting contempt, and declines to have any further connection with so infamous a set. Ned Clayton, driven to desperation by the loss of Ruth, seeks consolation in the bottle, finding a worthy companion in "the party by name of Johnson," who, while in a state of intoxication, is thrown into the river. Redburn charges Clayton with the crime, and proposes to Ruth to refrain from giving evidence against the accused if she will become his (Redburn's) wife. This proposition she rejects with scorn, and flees into Charleston the system so popular at the to an old admirer, Jellick (Mr. W. H. Tribute of Respect.

At the last Quarterly Meeting of the Board of Directors of the South Carolina Railroad Company, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:

The Board of Directors of the South Carolina Railroad Company, profoundly sensible of the loss which the company has sustained by the death of Mr. James Rose, and the void that has been made among themselves, now place upon record the expression of unfeigned sorrow which this sad event has caused them.

Educated for a life of ease rather than activity and with a fortune that removed all barriers to its indulgence, Mr. Rose's tastes and inclinations led him to the more active and useful pursuits of life. In its cause he discharged with ability and zeal the duties of State senator, of acting presi dent of the Bank of the State on the death o Judge Colcock, and until within a few week's of his death, of president of the Southwestern Railroad Bank. For many years a director of this com pany, he exhibited at all times a zealous interest in its affairs, and participated largely in its management. Reserved in his manners, but courteous, generous, liberal in sentiment, and imbued with a high sense of right, he won popularity without seeking it, and commanded and retained the confidence of all who knew him. Therefore, Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Rose, this new building, and the officials are at present camping out, the old office being in a state of disorder incident to a move.

A difficulty occurred on Saturday between a negro and a white man, near the lower market, directors in their bereavement.

THE WATT PLOUGH TRIUMPHANT.

Among the hundreds of testimonials we have from practical Planters and Farmers, we would call attention to the following extract from a letter received from Colonel B. G. LOCKETT, of the large planting firm of Jordan & Lockett, dated Albany, Ga., November 27, 1869:

"Before clesing this letter, I cannot refrain from expressing my sincere thanks to you for the invention of the BEST PLOUGH NOW IN USE. It is the delight of the negro. Besides doing the best work that I have ever seen any Plough do, it runs with more case to the ploughman, and the draft to the animal is lighter than any Plough I draft to the animal is lighter than any Flough I have ever seen.

"Your Plough has already become a necessity to me, and I would feel rained without it. I am satisfied we have saved, annually, thousands of dollars in mules alone. It is the Cheapest Plough I have ever used, of any kind or description, and I am anxious to bring, if I can, to the notice of my fellow-planters, this most valuable Plough."

Colonel Lockett commenced using these Ploughs in the spring of 1868, and now has more than two hundred and fifty (250) of them on his plantations.
